Acquisition expands Victaulic's capabilities and capacity for stainless steel solutions

Easton, PA, September 21 - Victaulic, the world's leading manufacturer of mechanical pipe joining, fire protection, and flow control solutions, announced the acquisition of Core Pipe Products, Inc.

The acquisition further strengthens Victaulic's manufacturing capabilities and expands its capacity to deliver stainless steel pipe joining solutions to customers across North America and around the world.

Core Pipe Products is a leading North American manufacturer of stainless steel and alloy pipe fittings serving the mission critical, commercial, industrial and water/wastewater markets. A second-generation, family-owned manufacturer, the company operates in three U.S. locations: one in Illinois and two in Florida.

Core Pipe has been a key supplier of stainless steel fittings to Victaulic and will now produce more fittings and components vital to Victaulic's product lines, ensuring continued excellence for the construction industry and valued customers in North America. This partnership underscores Victaulic's strategic investment to expand manufacturing capacity and strengthen its ability to produce high-quality stainless-steel headers and related components for its growing customer base.

"Core Pipe has built an outstanding operation recognized for quality, manufacturing expertise, and customer service," said Rick Bucher, President and CEO of Victaulic. "By combining Core Pipe's stainless steel expertise with Victaulic's engineering, supply chain, and operational capabilities, Victaulic is well positioned to deliver greater value to contractors, engineers, fabricators, distributors, and project owners."

The addition of Core Pipe will significantly increase Victaulic's domestic stainless steel manufacturing capacity and fabrication assemblies, expanding the company's ability to serve customers and pursue new market opportunities across North America. The acquisition is part of Victaulic's ongoing investment in manufacturing capacity, innovation and customer-focused solutions designed to improve productivity, safety and reliability throughout the life of a build.
